“ Oh, my beautiful baby brother. I love you and miss you so much. From the moments you were hitting me in the head as a toddler, to the moments I sat and watched you play your video games. I'd give anything to have those moments with you again. I can hear your voice, your laugh, see your face. We would pick those limes off Grandma's tree and have wars with them. It's not even the same without you, and everyone is so heart broken, even now. It's been nearly five months since you went to Heaven. I hope you're up there, smiling and laughing, watching your nieces and nephews grow. Your big sissy is about to have her own baby, and you're not here to see her. I know you're watching over them, and I wish I could see you again. I love you, Punk. And I will never stop missing you.
