“ Dear Honey, Andrew and Eddie, Our deepest sympathy to you for the loss of your beloved Mother and our dear beloved friend. We mourn and grieve with you. Each memory of your Mother brings a smile to our faces. We loved her dearly and will miss her terribly. Thank you for always keeping us updated on your Mom's condition. You children will always have a special place in our hearts as does your Mother. You remain in our prayers. Love, Rebecca and Bob

“ It is difficult to find words to express the love and respect that I feel for Nancy. I reconnected with Nancy a year ago through a class meeting and she just sparked a zest for life that I was missing. My husband had died only a few months earlier and I had pretty well shut down. Nancy took me in and loved me. I marveled at her "quirky" ways and quickly came to love her independence and individuality. Fort Payne and all the rest of us have lost a treasure with Nancy's death. She was truly an unique individual and my life has been enriched tremendously by what little time I have had with her. I am saddened by the pain that I know her family has to go through because of her death, but I rejoice with them for having such a sweet spirit throughout their lives. God Bless you, Honey, Andrew and Edward. Those are the names that we know you by and we have grown to care for.

“ Please accept our sincere condolences on the loss of Nancy. Though I haven't seen her since High School, I remember her strong spirit and cheerfulness. We've followed the many emails sent by her classmates and were buoyed by the notes of improvement and grieved by the notes of decline. And we've prayed for her recovery with each one. Let her strength comfort you in your grieving.

“ Nancy was quite a woman. She had a unique way of making the rest of us feel good and caused lots of folks to feel better by knowing her. This is evidenced by how many of her '62 classmates and friends have been praying for her. I took Nancy to the senior prom, and am particularly saddened by her passing. I want the family to understand how much she meant to so many people and what a special lady she was to us.

“ We will miss Nancy. She and I grew up through school together and were good friends. Nancy's enthusiasm for life was always such an inspiration to us. She would want all of us to go onward, live our lives with zest and joy, to remember the good times. May God bless you with peace and comfort during this stressful time. May He give you strength to carry on and to help you handle your mourning.
