“ Me and Clarke went through the Twilight Zone one night! I have yet to understand how it happened?! We were coming from the lake up the gap that comes up to Wild Woman Co. bridge, turn left, end up at Dog Town rd. We turned right, went through 4-way and Clarke said, turn right up here and lets go across bear creek road and fish a pond over toward Adamsburg. I took that right, went to the end of that rd, took a left, turned back right on Bear Creek rd at the Big Stucco house. As we're riding along talkin', we didn't pay that much attention how long it was taking. I asked Clarke, Shouldn't we have already got to our next turn? He said, I was thinkin' the same thing! About a half mile on down the road, we come up on a stop sign, both of us tryin' to figure where we were at? I recognized something and I told Clarke, Man, this is the rd Possum lives on and then on down is wild woman bridge that we just come by not too long ago. Clarke said it can't be. I took a right and said we should see Dog Town to the right when we get to the stop sign. Sure 'nuff, that's where we were, both of us, bumfuzzled, as to how we just went in a circle, and every turn we made should have taken us in the other direction!?????????I Think that will remain mystery, because there's no bridge across the canyon to take you back from where we had just come from. If we had turned right on Jennings rd, yeah we could've done it, but we turned left on Jennings and then right on Bear Creek rd. ?

“ We were coming back from fishing one night about 3:30am and we came around a curve and when the lights shined out across the field, Man, if there wasn't 300 Deer in that field, there wasn't one! Clarke said, I ain't never seen that many at once! I agreed with him, no doubt!

“ We were fishin' one night and Clarke stood up and stepped toward the live well on the general and he tripped on something and fell head first over side with his left arm holding to the side so he wouldn't go all the way in! He had a light on his head and as I got to him and grabbed him by the collar of his cover -alls and pulled him back him. Hahaha.... You could see the bubbles comin' out of Clakes mouth and he was talkin' under water, he was tryi'n tio say, Brock, help, get me up! You could actually hear him in the boat hahaha, I yanked back in and he said, Man I was beginning to think you weren't gonna; pull me back in. I was just about to take a breath when you yanked my head up and I got air instead of water. hahaha Bless his heart, he even laughed about it!
